You Won’t Believe How This Animal Survived! – The Gila Monster

The Gila Monster is one of the few venomous lizards in the world. Its survival techniques are fascinating, combining camouflage, venom, and a reclusive lifestyle.

Native to the southwestern United States and northwestern Mexico, this reptile spends most of its life hidden under rocks or in burrows.

Despite its fearsome look, the Gila Monster is slow-moving and not aggressive unless provoked. Its venom is delivered through grooved teeth in its lower jaw.

Recent studies show how its metabolism allows it to survive long periods without food, making it a true master of survival.
